Becoming a Celebrant.....

Individuals from all walks of life have come to learn how to provide meaningful, personalized funerals specifically for families regardless of their religious affiliation or no affiliation.

The In-Sight Institute travels the United States and Canada providing this unique and specialized training, which is changing the face of funeral service. It is an intense, participant-oriented training where you will have a chance to practice, discover resources and build your skills in working with families and making public presentations.

A variety of people become Celebrants: funeral directors, chaplains, clergy, hospice professionals, nuns, priests, teachers, writers, actors, business people—anyone who has an interest in serving people in this capacity who also has abilities in the areas of writing and public speaking.

The Trainers.....

Before joining In-Sight Books, Glenda Stansbury worked for twelve years for the Oklahoma Education Association as a trainer/facilitator. She was cited as one of the top trainers in her field. She has worked as Marketing and Development Director for In-Sight for 17 years and has been Dean of the In-Sight Institute for 14 years, training over 2,500 Celebrants around North America. She is a practicing Funeral Celebrant.

Cathy Nichols, Celebrant Coordinator, Busch Funeral and Crematory Services, taught American culture to Japanese auto executives and their families. She was the Director of Congregational Care at a large suburban church — teaching caring skills, leading support groups and providing resources for the elderly, ill and bereaved.

Based on her experience and skills, Cathy was one of three Celebrants selected to be the first Celebrant trainers added to the In-Sight Training Cadre.
