

You must pass an open-book, take-home test to receive your certification. Missing five or more questions means that you fail the test. You will be allowed to take the test a second time to try to receive a better score. If you miss five or more questions on that test, you will need to take the training course again before trying to pass the test another time.*

Get ready....

A new law in the state of Ohio requires each crematory to have at least one certified crematory operator by October. Take advantage of this timely programming!

Presented by....

Poul Lemasters, Esq., Principal, Lemasters Consulting and ICCFA Cremation Counsel—Poul uses his unique background in deathcare and law to provide resources and counsel to deathcare professionals.

He assists in risk management, daily operational conflicts, form and contract reviews, valuations, and regulatory matters. He advises funeral homes, crematories, cemeteries, and trade associations across the United States. He is the publisher of Parliament magazine.

Larry Stewart, Jr.—Founder, Cremation Strategies & Consulting
Larry's mission is to educate industry peers, customers, and the public about cremation, its history, cultural significance, environmental impact, and best practices. Larry is a former member of the Board of Directors of CANA, Editor in Chief of The Cremationist magazine published by CANA and the instructor for the Cremationist Apprenticeship Program at the Canadian College of Funeral Service.

In one day, gain extensive knowledge on technical, scientific, and legal issues, all of which are proactive prevention for future business problems. This seven hour seminar will offer this and more:

- Becoming a responsible crematory operator
- The history of cremation, including facts and figures
- Being a responsible operator
- The history of cremation lawsuits
- Cremation/combustion-the basics
- Basics of operation
- Handling of human remains
- Cremation and the environment, maintenance and safety
- Cremation forms and ethics
