Clothing Recommendations

For your Holland America cruise through New England and Canada in June, dress much like you would for a stylish land-based resort. The weather can be unpredictable, with daytime temperatures usually in the mid to upper 70s°F and evenings cooling into the 50s°F, so layering is key. Be sure to pack a sweater, jacket, or light coat for cooler evenings, along with a hat or visor and a compact umbrella for sudden weather changes. Comfortable, low-heeled, rubber-soled shoes are ideal for walking on deck, and sturdy walking shoes are a must for shore excursions.

Onboard, the dress code varies by venue and occasion. Casual attire like jeans, polos, sundresses, and blouses is perfect for daytime and pool areas, while shorts are welcome at breakfast and lunch. Smart casual is the go-to for dinners and evening activities, with collared shirts, dresses, skirts, blouses, and blazers encouraged. There are usually up to two formal nights during the cruise where black-tie attire, such as suits, tuxedos, cocktail dresses, or evening gowns, is appropriate. If you prefer to skip formal wear, smart casual attire is always acceptable in dining rooms and theaters.
